#1 STUDENT SUCCESS - Co-Lin was ranked No. 1 in student success on the 2022 Report Card. Each year, all 15 Mississippi community colleges must provide data to the Mississippi Community College Board to be compiled into a Report Card as required by the Mississippi Legislature. On the recently released 2022 Report Card, Co-Lin had the highest percentage for student success of all 15 community colleges in the state, with a total student success rate of 66.4 percent, far exceeding the state average of 59.7 percent. This means of all 15 community colleges in Mississippi, Co-Lin has the highest percentage of graduates. Student success is captured as earned awards, transferred, or retained at the institution within 150 percent of expected time to graduation.

Brown University School of Public Health and Co-Lin conducting environmental epidemiology research

Dr. Erica Walker is an Assistant Professor of Epidemiology and Founder of Community Noise Lab at the Brown University School of Public Health launches a public health study in Mendenhall, MS, working closely with nursing students from Co-Lin Community College.

On April 6, 2024, the Community Noise Lab research team, consisting of Dr. Cristina Nica (Research Scientist), Arlencia Barnes (Doctoral Student), Brianna Drake (High School Student Researcher), Toni Holloway (Research Assistant), Mrs. Janice Skiffer (Community Engagement Coordinator) Keshia Fuller and Shakayla Taylor (Practical Nursing Students at Co-Lin Community College) were at the E911 building in Mendenhall, Mississippi to complete baseline health study visits for enrolled children living in Mendenhall and D'Lo, Mississippi. The Mississippi Adolescent Environmental Health Study is a research study whose aim is to understand how a child's environment may impact their health throughout their young lives.

"April 6 represents the first wave of examination," says Dr. Walker. "We will return each year to collect a follow-up on this cohort's health. As a proud Mendenhall, Mississippi native, I am so humbled to be able to do this work in my hometown."

Enrolled children and their parents filled out a detailed environmental health survey and children participated in a variety of health examinations including having their anthropometric measures, blood pressure, spirometry, and hearing. Enrolled children also provided nail and blood samples. Parents brought in a sample of their tap water to be tested for pollutants and research staff will reach out to families soon to collect a sample of soil to also test. Families were given $150 for each child who participated.

"What is most exciting about this study visit was the opportunity to work with Co-Lin Community College nursing students," says Dr. Walker. " These students worked all of our health examination stations and were able to engage community members they will eventually serve."

"I am so thrilled that I was allowed to participate in this research experiment," says Keshia. "It was rewarding for me to get to learn new things as far as blood specimen collection and also learning about the water, soil, air, and noise pollution testing. I had never witnessed that before!"

"This research experience will be invaluable," says Practical Nursing Instructor, Hope Berry. "During the first week in the nursing program, students learn that the quality care we provide should be based on the most up-to-date-research and knowledge."

Community Noise Lab researchers and Co-Lin Community College students are also in Simpson County measuring air and noise pollution.

"The idea is to link the data collected at the April 6th examination and link it to the water, soil, air, and noise pollution data we have collected to understand how these pollution levels are impacting children across their lives," explains Dr. Walker.

"We have partnered with Community Noise Lab at Brown University for the past three years and appreciate the opportunity to provide Co-Lin students the continued opportunity to participate in public health research in their community," says Dr. Anika Floyd, Vice President of Copiah-Lincoln Community College's Simpson County Center.

Co-Lin and Michigan State University College of Osteopathic Medicine Establish Early Assurance Program

The Michigan State University College of Osteopathic Medicine and Co-Lin established an Early Assurance Program for qualified premedical students who graduate from Co-Lin and intend to, and then attend, an accredited undergraduate program of their choice. The program grants those students early assurance of admission to the medical school.

The partnership is inspired by Michael Henderson, D.O., a first-generation college student who earned his Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine degree from the MSU College of Osteopathic Medicine. Dr. Henderson, who began his educational journey at Co-Lin in Wesson, Miss., has also established a scholarship to assist students who qualify and are from the Early Assurance Program while attending the MSU College of Osteopathic Medicine.

The purpose of this program is to educate students about osteopathic medicine while also creating a direct pathway towards osteopathic medical school. Students in the program will receive advising needed to be successful in medical school and will be provided opportunities for mentorship from faculty and current medical students at the MSU College of Osteopathic Medicine. Students who maintain a cumulative science GPA of a 3.5 and overall cumulative GPA of a 3.5 from Co-Lin and their four-year institution, and who also receive a minimum GPA of 3.0 in Biochemistry and an endorsement from the Co-Lin advisor(s), would be eligible to be invited for an admissions interview and to submit their MCAT score(s) to the MSU College of Osteopathic Medicine.

Beginning in fall of 2023, students at this Mississippi community college will be able to start their journey to the osteopathic medicine field by building relationships with MSU College of Osteopathic Medicine's community through meetings with faculty and staff, as well as medical students. Shadowing opportunities with physicians in the Wesson area and connections to the medical community will also be available. The immersive program will educate Co-Lin students about osteopathic medicine, including webinars, shadowing experiences and volunteer opportunities, explained Gerica Lee, director of Post-Secondary Pathways programs for the MSU College of Osteopathic Medicine.

Dr. Henderson shared that in 1980 he was briefly introduced to osteopathic medicine, and after learning more about the profession, he knew it was the medical path for him. Now, he wants to share the opportunity with others, providing a way for those with dreams of becoming a physician to achieve them.

Preference for admissions to the early access program will be given to students who graduate from a low-income high school as defined by the U.S. Department of Education; are eligible for, or recipients of, an undergraduate PELL grant; are a graduate of a high school from a medically underserved urban or rural area; are first-generation college students; or those who demonstrate an interest in practicing medicine and/or in a primary care medical specialty for which there is a physician shortage.

Co-Lin is also excited to support their alumnus and their students in this new program. "We are incredibly grateful for the opportunity one of our outstanding Co-Lin students will have to attend medical school through this unique partnership with Michigan State University College of Osteopathic Medicine," said Dewayne Middleton, Ph.D., president of Copiah-Lincoln Community College. "We feel honored by Dr. Henderson's generosity in establishing this scholarship and his vision for creating a pathway that will alter the trajectory of one student's life. This is an exciting day as we celebrate the start of this one-of-a-kind partnership."

Co-Lin Wesson Campus Vice President and Chief Academic Officer Jackie Martin echoed Middleton's excitement. "Through this partnership agreement, our institutions are joining hands to create a bridge of educational excellence, ensuring that our students have access to an early and clear path towards their dreams and aspirations of becoming healthcare professionals in the field of osteopathic medicine," said Martin.

Breakfast for the Brave

The Simpson County Center had the privilege of hosting "Breakfast for the Brave" in celebration of Veterans Day. Those who served in various branches of the military were recognized for their selfless sacrifice and bravery.

Rep. Price Wallace gave a brief history of the origins of Veterans Day and a touching tribute to the veterans in attendance. Also, special thanks to Magee General Hospital, Pam Wallace and Johnny McDonald for co-sponsoring the breakfast.

Simpson County Center Vice President Dr. Anika Floyd thanked those veterans present, veterans not able to attend, and the families of service men and women for their sacrifices and service. She introduced the first ever Minuteman Service Award "to deserving individuals and/or businesses who have made a major impact on actions and policies related to the Simpson County Center. The Minuteman Award was created to recognize the remarkable acts of dedication and service of veterans and the Simpson County Center as a whole," said Dr. Floyd.

The first recipient of the Minuteman Award was Dr. Timothy C. Lea, Co-Lin's Director of Veterans Services. Dr. Lea served in the United States Air Force from 1976 to 1995 and faithfully served the college as the military director.

The second Minuteman Award was given to Fred Copeland who served in the United States Navy for 22 years including the Bay of Pigs, Korea and Vietnam. He and his wife Evelyn have funded scholarships for several students to further their education.

The third and final award went to Ross-Williamson-Grubbs VFW Post 9122 in Simpson County. The group donated monies to help create a veterans students green space on the Simpson County Center to use for rest and respite. It is located on the south side of campus just outside the Multi Purpose room and was officially dedicated at the end of the event.

Graduation

The college holds Fall commencement ceremonies in December when all three campuses gather in Mullen Gymnasium on the Wesson Campus.

In May, the college holds two ceremonies on the Wesson Campus, ceremonies for Natchez Campus graduates are at the Natchez Convention Center, and ceremonies for the Simpson County Center graduates are at the Boswell Auditorium.

Graduates spend that special day with family and friends to celebrate their accomplishment and are thankful for the memories and friendships made at Co-Lin.

Wolves finish eighth in MACCC conference championship

The Wolf Pack golf team had an up and down season. They started conference play with a third place in the East Mississippi Invitational Golf Tournament held at Mossy Oak Golf Club in West Point. That would be the highest team finish all season. Individually, freshmen Lander Guibert and Oscar Toreld were named to the All-Tournament Team.

The Wolf Pack finished eighth in the NJCAA District D championship and failed to qualify for the Gulf District championship.

A bright spot in the season was the play of freshmen Lander Guibert and Oscar Toreld as they both qualified as individuals to compete in the Gulf District tournament. Toreld was named All-MACCC Second Team.

Toreld captured second place in the Bulldog Spring Invitational and earned a spot on the All-Tournament Team. He also played well in the Bobcat Invitational finishing in the top five and was named to the All-Tournament Team.

The Wolf Pack are led by head coach Allen Kent assisted by Dejone Lee.

Wolf Pack basketball enjoys another winning season

After winning the MACCC conference championship in 2023, Head Coach David Sanders had his work cut out for him as he lost almost his entire team to graduation. With a predominately freshman laden team, the Wolves managed to pull out a winning season with a 16-11 overall record, an 8-6 record in the conference, and a playoff berth. Unfortunately, the Wolves were eliminated in the first round of the NJCAA Region 23 tournament falling to Baton Rouge Community College 70-65.

Freshman Courterius Scott earned MACCC Second Team All-Conference honors and teammate Emmanuel James was named honorable mention.

Legendary women's basketball coach Gwyn Young honored

Co-Lin honored legendary women's basketball coach Gwyn Young at a reunion of his former players in February. Young and his former players were also recognized during halftime of the women's basketball game against Northeast Mississippi. Young served as the head of the Co-Lin Wolves for 48 years amassing a career record of 1,004-306 for a .766 winning percentage. He is the second winningest inactive women's basketball coach in the National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA). Young set a career milestone of 1,000 wins on January 12, 2023.

Senator Jason Barrett and former state Senator Chris Caughman presented Coach Young with a resolution commemorating his career from the legislature during halftime of the game.

"Coach Young's legacy at Co-Lin extends well beyond the numerous awards, accolades and championships," said Co-Lin Athletic Director Bryan Nobile. "He will be forever known to our community as our coach, Dean of Students and Athletic Director. He is a true legend in the coaching world and has made an immeasurable impact on the lives of his players and our students."

Young is a member of the NJCAA Women's Basketball Hall of Fame, the Copiah-Lincoln Sports Hall of Fame, and the Mississippi Association of Community College Conference (MACCC) Hall of Fame.

Young won eight MACJC state titles, seven NJCAA Region 23 tournaments and has been runner-up 11 times. His teams have made six NJCAA National Tournament appearances with the 1989 team finishing a school-best fourth in the national tournament.

Young's former players have signed with over 37 different colleges and universities in his career with many former Lady Wolves going on to become coaches themselves.

Young was named Region XXIII Coach of the Year in 1989, 1993, 1997, 2002, 2007, 2010, and 2011, and MACJC and MAC Coach of the Year in 1993, 2001, 2007, 2010, 2011, and 2013. The Clarion-Ledger has also recognized him as Coach of the Year for Junior College's on numerous occasions, and the court in Mullen Gymnasium was named in his honor in 2011.

He also served as the men's assistant coach from 1975-1978 where he helped lead the team to an MACJC State Championship in 1975-76 before becoming the head coach in 1978 for one season that finished 10-12 overall. Other coaching duties included the slow pitch softball team, which Young led to the 1988 MACJC State and NJCAA Region XXIII titles.

Young was a standout player for the Wolves. After graduating from Co-Lin, he attended Mississippi College where he was team Most Valuable Player and a team captain. Young received his bachelor's degree from Mississippi College and master's degree from the University of Southern Mississippi.

Young and his wife, Velesta, have two adult children, Lane and Jessica, and five grandchildren, Mailey Kate and Reece Young; Justin, Mary Gwyn, and Grant Hynum.

Softball renovation complete

Members of the Co-Lin Board of Trustees, administration, athletic department, along with representatives from Paul Jackson and Son Construction, and Allred Stolarski Architecture of Ocean Springs cut the ribbon to officially open the newly constructed press box/concession stand at the Lady Wolves softball field. The project is just another example of the college's vision of excellence in all areas of campus and student-life at Co-Lin.

"We are thrilled to open this newly renovated facility for the Lady Wolves softball program," said Co-Lin President Dr. Dewayne Middleton. "Thank you to our Board of Trustees, our chairman Melton King, all our corporate sponsors, and our private donors who helped make this upgrade possible. This is a major step in moving our softball program and the college forward. We are excited to start the season at this impressive facility."

The first floor of the 3,100 square foot building includes a concession stand, restrooms, coach's office, laundry, and storage. The second floor houses the visitor and home media rooms, player lounge/meeting room, president's/hospitality suite, and restrooms.

The $1 million project also includes 51 chair back seats, new bleachers that will seat 143, and a new backstop.

"The upgrades we've made to our softball facility are going to really increase the game day experience for our fans and community," said Bryan Nobile, Co-Lin Athletic Director. "We are excited about the continued success of the Co-Lin Lady Wolves softball program."

The softball facilities will also be used for camps and high school games.

MICHAEL FALVEY

December 13, 1972-August 12, 2023

Portions of this article first appeared in The Daily Leader on August 15, 2023

Co-Lin Program Coordinator of Heating and Air Conditioning Technology Michael Falvey died Saturday, August 12 from injuries suffered in a motorcycle accident near the intersection of Highway 550 and Dunn Ratcliff Road in Lincoln County.

Michael was born on December 13, 1972, in Brookhaven, to James and Margie Falvey. He graduated from Brookhaven Academy in 1991. After graduation, he went to Ricks College, in Rexburg, Idaho, for a semester before serving a two-year mission for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints in the California Anaheim mission. He moved home after his mission and lived in Brookhaven where he later met his wife, Brandee. Michael and Brandee were wed in 1996 in Idaho Falls, Idaho. They had two children Mason and Madison Falvey.

Steven Esch, the Diesel Equipment Technology Instructor at Co-Lin, said he first met Falvey when he started working at Co-Lin 13 years ago. They led SkillsUSA together where high school classes would come to the campus. Esch said they did carpentry together. "He was a good guy. I didn't know him too well at first but he helped me a good bit when I started teaching by myself in my second year," Esch said. "I had some issues and he helped me. We did our classes the same and had our handbook the same way. We just worked well together."

Blake Oberschmidt, a Automotive Technology Instructor at Co-Lin, said he came to Co-Lin 12 years ago and met Falvey. He had a similar experience to Esch getting started as an instructor at Co-Lin. "I was kindly welcomed by many employees there at the school and one of them was Michael. He was quick to introduce himself and start a conversation," Oberschmidt said. "We became friends and would frequently talk about things or call on each other for help with our skill sets. Michael was known to help so many people in various ways and I am grateful to have known him. He will be missed."

Falvey and Esch rode motorcycles and had children who had started to leave the nest and go on to college. Their daughters are the same age. "We shared experiences and struggles together and we just clicked," Esch said. A new business Falvey usually had a good story to tell and oftentimes it was about camping trips with Boy Scouts. One of the last things they talked about was Falvey's plans to open a custom soda shop in Brookhaven called Sipps, Esch said. "He was a good person and I'll miss him. He was still teaching and I believe this would have been his 20th year. He spoke about retirement and wanting to spend more time with family," Esch said. Esch said if he had a problem or question he would turn to Falvey for guidance and Falvey would go to Esch for help too. Falvey loved his family and spoke about his wife, daughter and son all the time, Esch said.

"He loved his family. That is one thing I can say without a doubt. He loved his work family too." Falvey told The Daily Leader in July he hoped to open Sipps in September along with co-owners Adam Smith, Pam Smith, Brandee Falvey. He was a husband, father, a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints in Brookhaven.

Michael adored all his students throughout the years. He was a scout master for several years and developed unbreakable bonds with all his boys. Michael was also a Sunday school teacher and enjoyed teaching and talking about the gospel. He studied his scriptures every spare second that he was able and made God the center of his home.

His passion was basketball, history, and working with his hands. Michael was often found outside serving others around him. He adored his great nieces and nephews and spent every spare second that he had with his family.

In Closing...

This year saw our students receive local, state, and national recognition in the classroom and on the playing field as they etched their names in the record books.

The 93rd edition of the Trillium could not have been possible without the assistance of our Jostens Yearbook representatives Chris Creswell and Lori Shaw.

Many thanks to Johnny Smith Photography, Chuck Barnes Photography, the faculty, staff, and students on all three campuses who contributed to this book.

As I move on to the next chapter in my life, I leave the Trillium in the very capable hands of my co–sponsor Scarlett Hart.
